The need of strict lows to prevent form er saloon keepers from resuming their trade under the guise of druggists and of statutes to raise the standard of the of statutes to raise the standard of the drug profession as high of those of surrounding states, was presented to the legislative committee on public health and safety at the capitol at Hartford on Thursday. The discussion centered around senate bill 404 and was directed by Judge G. B. Carrison of Middletown and neveral of the leading druggists of the state.

The bill provides among other things.

The bill provides, among other things, that after January, 1923, all licensed druggists must have a high school education or its equivalent and after January, 1925, all must have graduated from a college of pharmacy. The section does not apply to pharmacists who are at present licensed or to present students.

Section eight of the bill limits the number of drug stores in any community to one for each 3,000 inhabitants, except that no existing drug store shall be refused a license and new ones shall be limits and son of Danielson and Mrs. H. B. Brown of Black Hill. A part of the afternoon was spent in singing well known refused a license and new ones shall be number of drug stores in any community to one for each 3,000 inhabitants, except that no existing drug store shall be refused a license and new ones shall be promitted to do business where great inconveniences to a considerable number of persons can be proved, even though the ratio of one to 3,000 might be exceeded.

In support of this

In support of this measure it was argued that the druggists under the pres-ent unlimited system had no protection from unscrupulous competition. Judge Carlson sold that the temptation for the former saloon keepers to go into the drug business so that they might sell "hootch" and alcohol in one form or another was very great and that many of them were anylying for drug licenses.

Mayor H. M. Lerou of Norwich, secretary of the state board of pharmacy, said that he favored the restriction of drug stores and any other measure that would raise the standards of his occupation.

Mr. Lerou further said that if Con-

P. J. Garvin of Middletown and S. H. Williams of the New Haven Association of Druggists, urged the passage of the bill. Mr. Williams declared that importations of opium had increased threefold since prohibition went into effect and said that unless this state raised the standards recovery to their standards recovery. said that unless this state raised the standards necessary to obtain a druggists' license, it would become a center for illegal traffic in booze and dope.

Representative F. M. Smith of Windham offered the only opposition to the bill. He said that he wished to go on record as opposition is necytains and de-
